THE LEGISLATURE

by Chick Evans

For the 20th time since the birth of the 20th century, Good Friday and Patriot's Day coincided. The coincidence won't be repeated until 2019.

But for the members of the 98th Legislature it was simply another working day, and there were some who predicted that the job would be finished just about the time another Good Friday and Patriots Day came together.

The 10th legislative week was not, however, lacking significant events. The House set a date for debate of the vital Jacoba Report Bill designed to revamp education financing in Maine; The Highway Committee, within 60 minutes, disposed of a hearing on a $28,800,000 bond issue for future highway building and the spotlight moved to the BIG question of how to raise the money for interest and retirement; there was a knock-out drag-out argument over trading stamps but, strangely, the ladies who paste them in the book didn't show up for the hearing.

The Senate and House rushed through a resolution asking the President and Congress to come quickly to the aid of the ailing textile industry; the powers of the Water Improvement Commission were challenged at the big hearing on stream classification; a "Baby Hatch Act" was approved with modifications; small loan agencies got a legislative punch in the nose and a cut in their interest rates; one of the biggest verbal battles of the legislative year was over one-sixteenth inch of a lobster's back; the governor, at his press conference, said he had found "almost no objection" to his proposal to increase the sales tax; and ponderable Rep. Albert E. Cobb of Lewiston had his egg-eating championship challenged from far-away Florida.

Textile Resolution. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith's Congressional measure requiring sales of government surplus cotton to Americans manufacturers at the same rate paid for foreign buyers was given a boost by the Legislature this week. The Senate, followed by the House, adopted the joint resolution, asking the President and Congress to act quickly on behalf of the textile industry. With the note that the United States announced closing of two Maine mills, the resolution was presented by Sen. Andrew J. Fournier (D-York) on behalf of the mayors of Bangor and Biddeford, and other community leaders.

Gasoline Prices. In "fairness to the companies," an order instituting a legislative study of gasoline prices in Maine to determine whether or not area differences are justified, has been held in abeyance for more study. Under the document, the Transportation Committee would make a preliminary study and report to the House whether or not a full-blown investigation is called for. Rep. James C. Tolman (R-Bangor), one of the authors of the order, was granted more time for investigation.

Transportation Matters. The Transportation Committee this week took the following actions on a variety of measures:

- Approved a divided report, 50-50, on Rep. James C. Tolman's bill limiting the horsepower of passenger cars to not more than 260 h. p.
- Issued another divided report four for and six against Sen. John H. Reed's proposal to increase maximum gross weight of farm trucks from 18,000 to 22,000 pounds.
- Unanimously approved Rep. Arthur O. Storm's (R-Berkeley) measure extended to 60 miles from the owner's farm the distance farm trucks could haul logs and pulpwood.

Enacted a bill relating to 22 the fee for motor vehicle examinations and inspection permits.

Approved a measure to lengthen the life of a learner's permit to 120 days for 22 and providing a $1 re-entrant for another 120 days.

Stripped Sen. William R. Cole's bill to provide for license plates of special color and shape for sheriffs and their deputies.

"Baby Hatch Act." The State Government Committee has approved.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

Do you realize the size of the present operation of the Mica business now being carried on by the Wheeler Brothers in Bethel. They are now furnishing employment to between fifty and fifty-five people. The mine employs all men, and ladies working.

From the general appearances the people seem to be enjoying their work and certainly the economic value to the Town is a very real help.

Mrs. Arlene Lyon used up about 100 feet of film last Monday in taking pictures at the mine as well as some of the trimming in the village. We expect to have this film available later for the Chamber of Commerce, schools and other interested people.

The construction of Tyler Street is well started. We expect to use about a car load of cement to stabilize the base of this street using the soil cement plan.

Please be careful of fires. Woods and grass are very dry.

Thank you,
O. T. Rozelle

COULD SENIORS PRESENTING "ONIONS IN THE STEW"

With three-daily rehearsals, the Gould Senior Play, "Onions in the Stew," to be presented in the William Bingham Gym on Friday, May 3, with a cast of eighteen, is rapidly rounding into form.

The book is a fast-moving farce by the witty Betty MacDonald, author of the book with the same title and the humorous "The Egg and I." Miss MacDonald finds plenty of complications in the adventures and misadventures of her family in trying to establish a home in a run-down house on an island ten miles off the city of Seattle. Two teen-age daughters and a comical husband, in addition to heating, plumbing, and tide-water problems all add to the mother's tribulations. But as in all good farces, everything comes out all right before the third-act curtain.

The play is a major item in an innovation at Gould, a "Senior Weekend" during which a field day and a lobster "feed" will be enjoyed by the entire school, under the auspices of the out-going class. Curtain time is at eight p. m., daylight saving time.

MISS GRACE ANNE CARTER

Grace Anne Carter was born in Bethel February 10, 1871, the daughter of Timothy and Ella Clough Carter. She was descended from two of the oldest families of the town; her father was the first of the Elias Carter children to be born in the Birch End House, Middle Intervale. She attended Gould for a short time and later Bridgton Academy. She was graduated from Bangor Kindergarten School in 1890.

Most of her life was devoted to teaching the deaf. She returned to Bethel to make her home in 1927, accompanied by Miss Catherine Seaton to whom she had been companion and teacher since childhood. Miss Carter had traveled extensively in Europe and had lived 23 years in Northampton, Mass.

The last years of her life were spent in the Mayville home with her sister, Frances, and Miss Seaton. More recently when she became ill, the John W. Carter, her brother and sister-in-law, came to assist in her care. Her death on April 19, 1957, has taken from the town yet another one of the keen and interesting older friends who will be greatly missed. She was the oldest in the family of twelve children, and is survived by the brother and sister with whom she lived.

Burial services were held at the home on Tuesday, April 23, Rev. Clifford Laws, officiating. Burial was in the Middle Intervale Cemetery.

CANCER FUND DRIVE ENDS TUESDAY NIGHT

Thousands of volunteers in all parts of Maine will be "on their toes," poised to battle cancer as they ring doorbells from 8:30 to 8:55 o'clock Tuesday in the Maine Cancer Society's second one-night campaign.

Maine volunteers will be working in virtually every city and town to distribute educational cancer information leaflets and receive contributions to support and extend the work of the Maine Cancer Society, in research, education and service for needy terminal cancer patients being cared for at home.

The Maine Cancer Society raised $163,500.22 in 1956 and volunteers are seeking to better that record in the current Crusade.

In some rural communities it may be difficult to adhere strictly to the two-hour schedule on Tuesday night. However, volunteers in such communities are urged to complete the solicitation during daylight hours on Tuesday, if possible.

During April, Cancer Control Month, the number of volunteers reaches its peak as Crusaders set out to raise the funds to finance a year-round battle against the disease that may reach into any and every home, striking one person in every four.

You, too, can help fight cancer. Answer your doorbell Tuesday when your neighbor the Cancer volunteer calls. Open your heart and your pocketbook to the needs of the Crusade and give generously. Fight cancer with a check and go to your physician for a check-up, too.

CONTINUED DRY WEATHER CREATES FIRE HAZARDS

Windy sunny days the first of the week brought the danger of grass and woods fires to a high point. The Bethel firemen were called twice Sunday and twice Monday, in all cases preventing much damage.

During a high wind Sunday morning the fire, which had smoldered two weeks after spreading from the West Bethel dump, jumped to the Newton & Tobett shavings pile. Although apparently extinguished it is said that danger still lingers there. Sunday noon a grass fire between Kilborn and Tyler Streets, at the rear of Robert York's buildings, was promptly controlled.

Monday morning the department was called to Northwest Bethel by a grass fire near Chapman Brook. Late that afternoon the alarm was sounded for a grass fire at the site of the residence last occupied by the late Frank Brown at Northwest Bethel near the Gilead town line. The place was burned in June 1946. Both grass fires were quenched with little or no damage.

While "Class B" conditions were reported principally in western Maine, some 1500 acres were burned over the first of the week in scattered locations. A light rainfall this Thursday morning, the first in more than two weeks, will relieve the hazardous situation.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunter and daughter, Jean and Nancy, of Avon, Conn., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Brewster and daughter, Patricia.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

Early in April, news dispatches from London told of serious political problems faced by Prime Minister Macmillan and of what was termed a "new wave of Anti-Americanism."

These two developments are closely related. They stem from a British fear, which finds many of its echoes in the minds of many Americans, that the United States is becoming more and more a world power. The fear is that the United States is becoming more and more a world power, and that this is a threat to British interests.

The root of all this lies in the political change that is taking place in Britain. The British are a great people and for good reason. But they are also a great people and for bad reason. They are a great people because they are a great people. They are a great people because they are a great people.

What this means is that much of the authority Britain used to exert in the world has passed to other hands. She remains an ally of the United States, and to most students she is the most important ally. But she is no longer the most important ally. She is no longer the most important ally. She is no longer the most important ally.

What importance has this local change to the United States? The answer is, every importance. The United States is a great power. The United States is a great power. The United States is a great power.

The United States is a great power. The United States is a great power. The United States is a great power. The United States is a great power. The United States is a great power.

The United States is a great power. The United States is a great power. The United States is a great power. The United States is a great power. The United States is a great power.

The United States is a great power. The United States is a great power. The United States is a great power. The United States is a great power. The United States is a great power.

Conservation Farming in Oxford County

by Douglas L. Marston,
Soil Conservation Service

A riverbank erosion control experiment is being planned by the Oxford County Soil Conservation District, on the Saco River. Andrew Welch of Fryeburg Academy has agreed to cooperate with the District in a trial experiment in the use of grasses to control a serious erosion problem.

The District Supervisors have agreed to furnish the necessary grass seed for the experiment and the Academy will furnish fertilizer and labor. The trial will be carried out in May under the direction of Douglas Marston of the Soil Conservation Service. The location of the erosion problem is on the Fryeburg Academy Farm in Fryeburg.

Stream and riverbank erosion is a major problem in Oxford County and at present there is no economically practical method of combating this problem. It is hoped that this experiment may provide the answer for a practical means of controlling this type of erosion problem.

The Oxford County Soil Conservation District wood lot improvement crew has started operation on the Arthur S. Cummings Sr. lot in Norway. Perry Chapman Jr. of Norway is in charge of the operation for the District and Clifford Swenson of the Maine Forest Service is supervising the cutting operation.

Ralph Thompson is planning to improve drainage on his farm in Fryeburg. Ralph has about two acres that he plans to have graded this month so that he can get it seeded for pasture this year.

Fred Shaw and Ed Buzzell, also of Fryeburg, have similar grading projects that they hope to complete early this spring.

proved Sen. Peter J. Farley's (D-York) "Baby Hatch Act" but with reservations. The measure, as drafted, would have prevented any state employees other than an elected official from holding office in a political party, or soliciting campaign money. The committee amended the bill to remove the exception of elected officials and the prohibition against holding political party office. The measure would still deny the right to solicit campaign funds from any state employee. A $500 fine is provided for violators.

Among bills signed by the governor this week were those setting up the state's three Indian reservations as separate voting districts, and changing Jackson and Moose River Plantations to towns.

GEORGE W. LATER SUCCEEDS TURGEON AS CHIEF WARDEN PILOT

Assuming duties this week as Chief Warden Pilot of the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Game is George W. Later, 33, of Greenville. He replaces William Turgeon of Lewiston, who is retiring from service with the State warden service.

Later has served as a Warden Pilot since 1949, having flown out of the Department's Greenville base to cover many sections of Maine's wilderness area. He has conducted some 85 missions for lost persons.

Prior to flying duties with the State, Later served as a district fish and game warden in the Ripogonus area for two years. He learned to fly under the GI Bill, obtaining his private license in 1947 and his commercial license the following year.

He has logged over 7,000 hours in the air as a warden pilot, with previous time spent flying commercial aircraft. He holds licenses for single-engine and multi-engine land planes as well as single-engine seaplanes.

SCOUTERS' ROUNDTABLE

Rangely District Scouters met at the Weld Fire Hall Tuesday night, April 16, for their monthly Roundtable where they discussed and planned their April programs and received new program material from the Pine Tree Council. A display of camping equipment was shown and discussed by Bill Baird, Neighborhood Commissioner from Dixfield. Glen Steldi, District Commissioner, showed slides taken by Lynden Clark, Scoutmaster of Troop 142, taken at the District Ski Meet in February at Spruce Mountain. The group then separated for individual sessions at Cub Scouting, Boy Scouting and Exploring.

The Cub Scout group dramatized a new Bobcat pin presentation ceremony which is to be found in the "Cub Scout Ceremonics," published by the Boy Scouts of America. A discussion of the May theme "Cub Scout Firemen" was led by Betty Mitchell. She included a display of material which can be obtained from the Maine Forest Service and a Home Fire Safety Check List. An excellent display of handicraft materials was shown by the leaders of Pack 143, Mexico.

The Spring Camporee to be held May 31, June 1 and 2 was the major topic of discussion in the Boy Scout and Exploring groups. Tentative locations, programming, food and other details of the camporee were worked out. John Jalbert displayed some free material which he had obtained from Remington Arms Company for the use of his troop in the study and use of firearms.

Because of the attendance at these meetings, it was decided that a large hall should be found before the next Roundtable which will be held on May 14.
